

A BREEZELESS DAY

ASL SCENARIO AP3

Scenario Design: Brian Youse

GROS REDERCHING, FRANCE, 2 January 1945: Operation Nordwind was launched to take advantage of the thin front offered by the American Seventh Army. The Seventh was covering the positions that had been occupied by Patton's Third Army, now deployed in the Ardennes. Initial thrusts by the attacking XIII SS-Korps were poorly led and gained minimal ground even though they outnumbered the defending GIs. Reinforced overnight by the 17th Volksgrenadier Regiment and the 36th Volksgrenadier Division, the XIII SS-Korps continued its attacks the following morning.

BOARD CONFIGURATION:

BALANCE:

☆ Add one M36 GMC to the U.S. OB.

⚡ In the Victory Conditions, change "currently Control ≥ 10" to "currently Control ≥ 5".

VICTORY CONDITIONS: The Germans win immediately upon Exiting ≥ 70 Victory Points (excluding prisoners) off the south edge of board(s) 42/43, provided they currently Control ≥ 10 buildings on board 42, on/south-of hexrow K.

AFTERMATH: The spearhead of the XIII SS-Korps was the 17th SS-Panzer Grenadier Division, a unit refitted just prior to Nordwind with a high proportion of low quality Volksdeutsche and the usual high quality equipment lavished upon the SS divisions. The men of the 17th SS-Panzer Grenadier Division, with their flanks protected by the volksgrenadiers, continued their attack on the 44th Infantry Division's positions. Despite several spirited counterattacks by American infantrymen, the armored elements of the SS managed to break through and capture Gros Rederching and Achen. Further counterattacks then forced the panzergrenadiers to retreat from their newly won territory. By Nordwind's second nightfall, the offensive had lost all momentum.
