VICTORY CONDITIONS: The Partisans win immediately upon controlling buildings 24M6, 24O5, and 24U4.

Ust-Usa, Siberia, 24 January 1942. In the history of the Soviet Gulag there was only one armed rebellion. In the small logging camp of Lesoreid Lagpunkt Mark Retyunin, the camp administrator and a former prisoner, organized a mass uprising. The prisoners locked the majority of the guards in the bathhouse and armed themselves with weapons. After overcoming the remaining guards they equipped themselves with new uniforms and boots. Weapons, however, were still in short supply. About half the prisoners marched on the nearby town of Ust-Usa that contained a militia building and a cache of weapons. With less than half of their men armed, the rebels had to act fast in order to seize the militia building, the post office (with the telephone exchange), and the town jail.

BALANCE:

-  Exchange one (1)-0-6 unarmed squad for a 3-3-7 squad in the Partisan OB.
-  Game length is shortened to 6 turns.

SPECIAL RULES:

1. EC are Ground Snow with no Wind at start. All roads are plowed. Building 24M6 is Fortified (B23.9) and has a RB Cellar (O6) Location.
2. All Militia units in building 24U4 are considered Fanatic (A10.8).
3. The Gulag Rebels are Partisans (A25.24), may not deploy, and may not form multi-Location FG. The unarmed squad that sets up in the cellar of building 24M6 may not move or take any action until it is recovered (A4.44) by a Partisan unit. After recovery, this unarmed unit is considered an unarmed Partisan unit.
4. Whenever a MMC is eliminated or Reduced, place a Labor counter in that hex Location; a Labor -1 is placed for HS casualties, a Labor -2 is placed for squad casualties. The Labor counter represents the inherent small arms weapons of the Reduced or eliminated unit and can be recovered or eliminated like a SW (A9.73); a -1 Labor counter is considered 1 PP, a -2 Labor counter 2 PP. These weapons must be transferred to an unarmed unit before they can be used. An unarmed unit that recovers/is transferred a Labor counter is automatically exchanged for a 3-3-7/1-2-7 Partisan squad/HS; a -1 Labor counter completely arms an unarmed HS (i.e., exchanges it for a 1-2-7 HS), or is used to exchange an unarmed squad for an unarmed HS and a 1-2-7 HS. A -2 Labor counter is used to exchange an unarmed squad for a

4. (cont.) 3-3-7 Partisan squad or a 1-2-7 HS and -1 Labor counter. In addition, any unarmed MMC that successfully makes a Recovery (A4.44) dr in building 24U4 becomes a armed Partisan unit (3-3-7 squad/1-2-7 HS).

5. At the start of each Russian Rally Phase that there are no Partisan units in building 24U4, the Russian player makes a reinforcement dr. The Russian receives reinforcements as follows according to the dr:

- 1 = 1 x 7-0 leader
- 2 = 1 x 2-2-7
- 3 = 1 x 4-2-6
- 4 = 1 x 2-2-6
- 5 = 1 x 2-2-6
- 6 = 1 x 6+1 leader

The reinforcements set up immediately in building 24U4.

AFTERMATH: The rebel prisoners quickly captured the post office and jail, cutting off communications from the town and freeing more prisoners who joined the rebellion. However, the townspeople rushed to defend the militia building. The battle lasted into the night, but in the end the rebels lost half their number killed or captured. The rebel prisoners fled to a collective farm and subsequently into the hills. The NKVD pursued the rebels and the rebellion was over by 31 January. The only armed rebellion against the Gulag system had ended badly for the prisoners. Future resistance would be more peaceful, and surprisingly more effective, after the war was over.

SLOVAK SECURITY

Ivaskoviè, Ukraine, 13 June 1942. The Slovak Security Division was created from the 2nd Division on 1 September 1941. The Division was 8,000 soldiers strong, divided into two regiments (the 101st and the 102nd) and one scouting group. The main aim of the Division was to fight against partisans. In the operational area of the Division were also located units of German field police and Cossack and Latvian collaborators. Since the Division did not possess any armored vehicles, except a few captured French tanks, it built an improvised armored train that was assigned to guard the track between Zinsk and Gome. On 13 June 1942, a Ukrainian partisan unit was attacked by Slovak security forces near Ivaskoviè.

VICTORY CONDITIONS: The Slovaks win if they control buildings 50X6 and 50N5 at game end, otherwise the Partisans win. Additionally, the Partisans win immediately upon eliminating/capturing \geq two AFV and/or AT Guns (Recall is NA for VC purposes).

BALANCE

- Exchange 2 x 3-3-6 for 2 x 3-4-7 squads.

THE JEWS HAVE GUNS!

Scenario Design: Paul Works
©March Madness Development Team

Warsaw Ghetto, Poland, 19 April 1943. General Stroop ordered troops into the Warsaw Ghetto to begin the final "relocation" of all the Ghetto's Jewish inhabitants on 19 April 1943. For months, the Jews within the Ghetto had been preparing numerous strong points and bunkers. Ukrainian, Wehrmacht, and SS troops entered the Ghetto from the Nalewki Street gate and moved along several routes. One route led from Gensia Street along Zamenhof Street. Żydowska Organizacja Bojowa (ZOB; Jewish Combat Organization) Partisans defended numerous strong points and other houses along this route. As the German column reached the intersection of Mila Street and Zamenhof, the Partisans opened fire from all directions. No location was safe and the column was caught in a vicious crossfire. As the Germans panicked and scrambled into a retreat, one called out, "the Jews have guns!" The ZOB partisans rejoiced at their victory, but did not have long to rest before the SS troopers and their Ukrainian allies returned, this time supported by armor.

VICTORY CONDITIONS: The German wins immediately upon exiting 15 CVP from hex 51I10.

BALANCE:

- ⚡ Add a 3-3-7 to the ZOB OB.

5. Use Axis Minors for Ukrainian units/SW. German leaders may influence Ukrainians without incurring the Allied Leadership penalty (A10.7).

AFTERMATH: The Germans moved forward more cautiously, using the cover of their vehicles. As they neared the same intersection, the ZOB fighters moved rapidly through attic openings between rowhouses to concealed and advantageous firing position where they engaged the German and Ukrainian troops using homemade bombs, small arms, and Molotov cocktails. Within minutes, the Marder and its crew were burning, one of the armored cars was on fire, and the entire force had retreated for a second time. The ZOB partisans had scored another victory against the Germans. The Jews did indeed have guns and used them to heroically exact a painful toll before they were finally silenced.

IS PARIS BURNING?

Scenario Design: Daniel Best
©March Madness Development Team

Paris, France, 23 August 1944. The Paris uprising started on 19 August 1944. Like Warsaw, Hitler immediately ordered the City to be destroyed. The battle quickly developed into a draw. The Forces Françaises de l'Intérieur (FFI) partisans had captured many municipal buildings and several important cultural landmarks. However, the German garrison was secure in a series of strong points around the city and could mount attacks with mobile battle groups. On the morning of 23 August a German battle group made an attack on the Grand Palais, which was occupied by the FFI partisans.

VICTORY CONDITIONS: The Germans win immediately if ≥ 5 Locations of building 45J3 are Blazes and/or Rubble.

SPECIAL RULES:

1. EC are Normal, with no wind at start. Kindling is NA. All printed walls on both boards are treated as roadblocks (B29). Bypass movement in NA around buildings/woods along hexsides that contain wall depictions.
2. All FFI units are Partisans (A25.24), may not deploy, and may not form multi-Location FG. The Partisans may use MOL (A22.6) and use all SW with Captured Use Penalties (A21). All Partisan units have their movement allowance increased by one and may use Sewer Movement (B8). The Partisan player may use HIP for ≤ 2 MMC and any SMC/SW stacked with them. All Partisan units in building 45J3 are considered Fanatic (A10.8).
3. Tunnels are NA. Trenches connect to all ADJACENT ground level building Locations as if they were Cellars per RB SSR6 (i.e., no RB Cellars actually exist).
4. German AP rounds can be used to start fires in building 45J3 (only). A tank may specify a building Location itself as the target for a MA

4. (cont.) attack. The building Location is treated a vehicular target (Large Target Size; D1.72). A building Location has an AF of 3 (4 if fortified). Any AP hit that achieves a "kill" result causes a flame in the target Location; a "burning wreck kill" will cause a Blaze in the target Location. Any infantry in a target Location are subject to a Specific Collateral Attack (D.8A) using the HE equivalency for the AP round and the building's TEM (+3/+4 if fortified).
5. The Germans do not have any PF capability.

AFTERMATH: The Germans attacked with a mixed battle group of infantry, goliath remote control bombs and tanks. The FFI defended the Grand Palais and an intense battle developed. The German tank shots ignited a fire in the Grand Palais and the Paris fire brigade responded. With the battle keeping the fire brigade from putting out the fire the Grand Palais suffered major damage. About noon the FFI partisans evacuated the Grand Palais and the battle ended. During the Paris uprising Hitler repeatedly asked his Generals "Is Paris Burning?", on August 23 the Generals were able to tell Hitler the Grand Palais was burning. Overall Hitler would be disappointed in the amount of destruction in the city of lights.

AMBUSHING THE WARHEADS

Scenario Design: Daniel Best
©March Madness Development Team

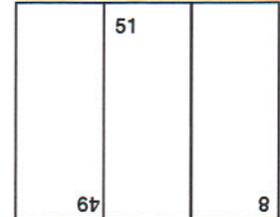

Paris, France, 24 August 1944. General Cholitz, the German commander of Paris, was under orders from Hitler himself to destroy Paris much the same way Warsaw was currently being systematically destroyed. The only major source of explosives available to the German garrison was the Kriegsmarine torpedo depot in St. Cloud. Using the explosives in the torpedo warheads would give the Germans enough destructive power to raze all important infrastructure and cultural structures in the city. However, since the start of the uprising (19 August) the Germans did not have complete freedom of movement in the city and getting explosives from the depot to the engineers at the bridges and important buildings was an extremely challenging task. On 24 August, the Germans sent several shipments of warheads to the engineers waiting to demolish the Chamber of Deputies.

VICTORY CONDITIONS: The Germans win immediately by exiting an ammo vehicle off any north or east board edge. If no ammo vehicle exits, the side with the most CVP at game end wins.

BALANCE:

5. The Germans do not have PF capability.

AFTERMATH: The FFI partisans ambushed every vehicle sent out from the torpedo depot on 24 August. Such was the success of the FFI ambushes that few buildings or other structures were effectively demolished with explosives by the German engineers. The next day, with the arrival of allied land forces (to include the 2nd Free French Division), Paris was effectively liberated and saved from the fate suffered by Warsaw.

REMBERTÓW

Scenario Design: Daniel Best and Paul Works
©March Madness Development Team

Rembertów, Poland 21 May 1945. As the Soviet Union "liberated" Poland the NKVD rounded up members of the Polish Home Army (Armia Krajowa (AK)) because they supported the non-Marxist Polish Government in exile; as such, they were enemies of Soviet communism. The Soviets shipped the AK prisoners to Gulag camps in Siberia. While waiting for transport to Siberia the Soviets kept the prisoners in jails and prison camps. One of the largest of such locations was the former German "Stalag 333" camp at Rembertów. In the spring of 1945, the NKVD captured AK General Emil Fieldorf and sent him to Rembertów. The AK decided to attack the prison to release General Fieldorf and other important prisoners. The attack was planned for the night of May 20-21 and was executed with a well armed force. Trucks were brought in to transport the prisoners rapidly to safety.

- Successful detonation of a DC automatically eliminates any Wire counter in that hex.
- Prisoner units may not move or advance until successfully Recovered (A4.44) by a Partisan unit.

AFTERMATH: The attack was a success. The trucks were able to transport almost 100 prisoners to safety in less than 25 minutes and the AK attackers suffered only three wounded as casualties. In addition to the Poles who escaped, numerous German POWs and other prisoners were freed; the NKVD later reported that 466 "criminals" had escaped. The AK attack, however, was too late to rescue General Fieldorf; he had already been sent to Siberia.

METAL-SHABA

Scenario Design: Paul Works
©March Madness Development Team

Metal-Shaba, Zaire, 20 May 1978. On 11 May 1978, 4000 Front for the National Liberation of the Congo (FNLC) troops crossed into Zaire from Zambia. The primary objective of the FNLC was the capture of the important mining town of Kolwezi in south-east Zaire. In addition to being a vital mining center, the city housed 2500 Europeans, whose safety would be in question during any conflict. The FNLC arrived at Kolwezi on 13 May and quickly seized control of the city from the weak Zairian 13th Brigade, Kaymanyola Division. Fears for the safety of the European residents were well founded; on 16 May forty were massacred, and on 17 May another fifty were shot. Reports of these incidents leaked out from witnesses and the French and Belgian governments acted. The 2d R.E.P.'s first three companies parachuted into Kolwezi on 19 May. Elements of the Belgian Paracommando Regiment landed at Kolwezi airport south of the city on 20 May. That same day, the 2d R.E.P. consolidated its position and the 4th Company, 2d RE.P. moved to scout out a small village and railway junction north of Metal-Shaba (2 miles north of Kolwezi).

VICTORY CONDITIONS:

The French win at Game End if they Control ≥ 6 multi-hex buildings. The French win immediately if there are ≤ 2 unbroken FNLC MMC onboard.

(cont.) for this Fire Mission [EXC: the failure of an "extra" Battery Access attempt (# chits: 9B/3R) required for lack of Known enemy units to the Observer (C1.21) simply disallows the placement of the SR/conversion of the SR to a FFE for that Player Turn only; it does not result in the loss of the single Fire Mission]. Smoke is NA for this OBA.

AFTERMATH: Nearing the village, Chief Sergeant Cas climbed the rail station tower and spotted a large body of soldiers at the 4th Company's front. Within minutes the French found themselves in an engagement against over 300 FNLC troops. Unfazed, the paratroopers set up a base of fire along a ridge northeast of the village and returned fire. The FNLC troops held against the initial French attack and reinforcements were requested. The 2nd Company, mortar section, and reconnaissance section soon arrived and the assault recommenced. The FNLC rebels soon broke and fled, leaving 80 dead behind. This engagement ended the fighting around Kolwezi. By 22 May, 2300 expatriates had been evacuated from the Kolwezi area by the Belgians and the FNLC had fled. Kolwezi itself had suffered greatly; its infrastructure was gutted and over 160 Europeans and several hundreds of native residents lay dead. Were it not for the rapid response of elite French and Belgian paratroops, the losses would have been an order of magnitude higher.
