

INTERLOCK PSIONICS

By
Michael L Straus

The following optional rules for the Interlock © Role Playing System from R.Talsorian games is based on ideas that appeared in Mekton Empire, from R.Talsorian Games. Mekton Plus, from R.Talsorian Games. Nights Edge, from Ianus games. Cyber Generation, from R.Talsorian Games.

In addition many of these abilities are based on original ideas created by Mathew Keating, Sean Marshal and myself. Also one can not put a psionic system to print without tipping a hat to Star Wars and the ideas of the Force by George Lucas.

Psionics, Powers of the Mind. Telepathy, Telekinesis, the Force, the Flow, the Way, Chi. These are all names for the ability to use the powers of your mind to effect reality around you, while magic is drawn from an external source. Psionics are drawn from your own mind and its unfathomed abilities. The average human uses only 10 - 15 % of the potential of his brain, what wonders wait us when we learn to harness the rest of this amazing mussel.

The Interlock© Role Playing System is perhaps one of the best RPG systems on the market, sadly its true potential has never been met and although Mekton and Cyber Punk are two great games. Interlock has the capability to be used in other genres. It is truly a generic system waiting to be taped. This article will discuss the rules for creating and using psychic powers in your interlock game. telepathy in Cyber Punk. Telekinesis in Mekton. Why not? And that's only the beginning.

It is no mystery to fans of this game that Interlock is heavily influenced by Japanese Animation and the Oriental culture in general. While there are many schools of thought regarding Psychic powers, we will be using one that is very ANIME in nature. Akira, Psi Mu Gundam, Tokyo Babylon, Lens Man. These are some of the role models that we used in creating this system.

The following is an addition to the existing Psionic rules as they appear in Mekton Z. I have added several new abilities to better show all the verity of ways the Psionics can appear.

Rules and notes.

1: What are Psionics : While magic is the ability to tap in to an external source of power and manipulate it for desired results, Psionics are the ability to tap in to an internal source of energy and use it to attain desired results. Magic is more broad and flashy, while Psionics are more refined and specialized.

We only use 10% to 15% of our potential brain energy. There is so much possibility that we as a people have yet to tap, but what of those that can ?

History and the media is filled with stories of individuals who can read minds and bend spoons. True 99.9% of those have been fake, but there is still more in heaven and on earth than we can ever hope to explain.

Psionics are the powers of the mind. The ability to effect reality with but a thought, not everyone can call upon this power and even less can sue it wisely. It is a fine and dangerous road to walk, to be a Psy

2: The "Psychic Control" Stat: If you allow an individual to have Psionic powers then you must give them a new stat to add to their other stats. This new stat is known as Psionic Control or PC and is the characters raw ability to control his Psychic powers. Like all other stats in Interlock the player will roll 1d10 and place that number in his PC stat.

When using a Psychic ability he will roll 1d10 and add that Number to his PC stat plus his Rank with the Psychic power he is using.

3: How many skills: A starting Psychic character has Ten (10) Ranks he can assign to any psychic ability. he could take One (1) power at rank Ten (10) or Ten powers at rank One (1) or Two (2) at Rank Five (5) or divide it any way he see's fit. As long as he only has no more and no less than a total of Ten ranks to begin with.

As play progresses he may learn new Psychic powers or increase his Ranks in his Psy Skills through experience.

4: Range: The range for all psychic powers unless the description of the power says otherwise is Line of sight.

5: Duration: Unless the description of the power in question says otherwise then the duration of a Psychic ability is as long as you are concentrating on it. If you are using a psychic power then that pretty much takes up all your attention and to attempt to do anything else would be made at a Difficulty Modifier of +12

6: Targets: Most Psychic abilities only effect One (1) target at a time. For every additional target you wish to effect you must spend an additional Three (3) Ki over and above the total Ki cost of the power.

7: Drain and Recovery: Each Psychic individual draws his Psychic energy from his own untapped energy potential. What is known in Martial Arts and Anime as KI.

A starting Psychic will have an amount of Ki equal to his EMPATHY plus his COOL plus 1d10. This total may be increased through the course of play if the GM so desires (like after you spend two months training with Yoda©)

Each Psychic ability costs an amount of Ki energy to use it. When you are out of Ki energy you can still use your Psychic abilities but the cost now comes off your BODY (And yes you can kill yourself doing this)

Ki energy is regained at a rate of Three points per hour of Rest. After using your psychic abilities you MUST rest for at least Six (6) hours. This does not mean you have to be asleep, just not doing anything more stressful than walking and talking and shopping. NO matter if you only use One (1) psychic power or Twenty (20) psychic powers a day, you MUST rest at least Six (6) hours.

8: Limitations and Times per day: You can use your Psychic powers as many times a day as you have Ki points to spend. The only two limitations on Psychic powers is that A) you must be able to visually see your opponent when using a Psychic attack and have a general idea where a target is when using any other type of Psychic ability.

And B) Psychic powers will almost never function on or near a Dragon Line or Node (see the Interlock magic rules also by this author for a description of these things). This is due to the fact that the energy given off by a Dragon Line is so great that it acts like Psychic static, drowning out the abilities of the Psy. There are a few powerful Psychics (Yoda) who have learned to attune themselves to this static and who remain unaffected by it.

9: Types of Psy: There are Six (6) known types of psychic categories or Ways. They are...

Telepathy. Ability's that effect an individuals mind or perception of reality.

Telekinesis. The ability to effect external events and individuals.

Projection: the ability to project your senses or body beyond the normal human range, this would include astral travel.

Body Control. Abilities that allow you to internalize your psychic energy to perform super human feats, like shape changing or flight.

Technology. The ability to effect and control technological devices.

10: The "Dark side" of the Force:

"Is the dark side more powerful?"

"No, quicker. Easier. Not more powerful."

Psionics are energy and energy is neither good nor evil, it is the will of those that use that energy that makes it evil or good. We all have a dark side and the use of some of these powers reflect that dark side. Some of these powers could be considered "Evil" in their use and are noted as "DARK SIDE" powers. Like in anything else, it is a lot easier just to take short cuts and go for the quick power then spend time and effort learning the slower, more complicated tasks. Taking the quick way, using powers that are dangerous or "Evil" in nature can be a deadly road to travel.

It would seem at first sight that the Dark Side powers are more powerful and cheaper to use than any of the other powers and that is true. BUT, that's what the Dark Side wants you to think.

In truth. Every time you use a Dark Side power you lose ONE (1) point of EMPATHY. EVERY TIME! Should your EMPATHY ever drop to Zero (0) you have "fallen to the dark side" . Hand your character over to the GM and roll up a new one.

Once the fall to the Dark Side has started it is hard to stop, but lost EMPATHY can be regained. There are a few Psychic powers that can heal this loss and there are places that are so pure and empowered with the "Light" (Lothlorian, Minbari, Dagoba) that staying there can also heal you. Still it is just far better to avoid the Dark Side all together.
