The Chinese infantry is very low tech, taking advantage of the large number of troops over training and sound tactics. Until fairly recently, the main anti-tank capability of the Chinese infantry was massed infantry attacks with satchel charges, a tactic only made possible by the fact that equipment is rarer and more valuable than the soldiers.

Option: China maintains several Airborne divisions. These receive very little in the way of specialized training. Add Parachute 30 (cost 185/170)

The Chinese military also maintains several special forces formations, but as yet I have insufficient information to create acceptable packages.

Fairly efficient, fairly corrupt, brutal if you are not of the party elite, polite and helpful to tourists (well as helpful as they can be without telling you anything). Most officers are armed only with a club and a whistle.

Police Immediate Action package to follow.
