SETTING SUGGESTION

Written By: Spenser Starke

THE LIVING CITY

The city of Icarus is alive. Having taken shelter on the back of a massive winged creature during one of their thousand year slumbers, the people of Icarus were thrust into the air upon its reawakening and now soar above the dangerous world below. With the privacy and protection of this flying foundation, the city has thrived like no other place in this region has been able to.

IMAGERY

Open skies, bright sun, light scattering off of clouds below, outstretched wings upon which homes dangle, scorched land below, massive thunderstorms in all directions, wind-whipped sails

RESOURCES & TECHNOLOGIES

Wind-powered turbines, massive flags, clouds full of collectable water, solar power harvesting, airsail boats pulled along by the creature, hanging buildings, safety harnesses, celestial navigation
